Our personnel are familiar with the various provinces of Afghanistan, giving us a major advantage when planning and executing security operations throughout the country. Along with our expertise we are a company with extensive logistical capabilities and through our sister companies "Sultan Group", we can ensure that we provide all the mission specific requirements and necessary resources for our security personnel to keep any mission on track and provide an extensive range of life support services, from point to point air travel, food and secure accommodation.

SSS provides experienced Ex-Pat Program Advisors, Site Managers, Supervisors as well as Security Guards to assist in the execution of projects to ensure client mission success. Our on-site Security Supervisors report to the operations center 24hrs a day, and intelligence updates are passed on to the various locations to keep our staff up to date on possible threats or security risks.

Recruiting, Screening and Background Checks

SSS local national recruitments are done only from the SSS' pool of reserved candidates comprised of Afghan National Army or Afghan National Police personnel or those who possess prior security experience within recognized security agencies, and as a result, have undergone extensive screening and vetting. The MOI screening and vetting process ensures that all personnel are registered with the Afghan government, possess a valid national ID card, and have no criminal record or affiliation with radical or terrorist/fundamentalist organizations. Coupled with Afghan Government approved vetting systems, our recruits who pass the appropriate Afghan security and medical background checks, are also entered onto the US Military BATS system, biometrically checking our personnel against watch lists and criminal records held by US Government Agencies. Once all security checks are passed, new recruits receive extensive training as per the international standards prior to mobilizing any contract.
